Love for sound is the driving force behind our collective. We organise events, promote the talents of our DJ community and publish music-related content online.

We are united by music but do not let genres separate us. Each of our collaborating artists contributes with their unique musical expression and we strive to promote a welcoming and respectful community where differences are celebrated.

Our series of cozy nights at Bar Theo have allured the ears of listeners and dancers alike, presenting a spectrum of house sensuality, electric waves from past and present, breaks for the mind and the soul, entrancing sweeps of energy and engulfing depths of dub and bass.

Eclectic climax can also be central to our events - like in our CHORBA concept initiated in Sexyland World in 2024. A collective expression from our community manifested in sparkling pop, video game music, visuals, performances and workshops, a journey across cultures and generations.

The interweaving of sensations is also a hallmark of our concept-raves Activités en Forêt - secret gatherings in the woods where nature becomes a playground for musical and visual expression. Ambient soundscapes resonate together with easy vibes for the day trippers, fierce bangers for the dancefloor athletes and stroboscopic sound pulsations for the night creatures.

These and many more events shape our experience and inspire our future endeavors in Amsterdam and on the international scene.

Along with musical selectors, we are always keen to integrate live music acts in our performances and to offer support for upcoming producers.

Visuals

We tell stories not only through sound, but also through light. When sensory activation is needed, we like to supplement musical acts with appropriate visual stimuli.

At our events, this is often done through projected imagery - video collages, generative patterns and other methods of visual storytelling tailored to the DJ sets, prepared in advance or improvised on-the-go.

The visuals are meant to create an immersive link between the observer, the space and the performance. The synergistic invocation of emotions by picture and sound is one way to achieve this. We further amplify this through sound-reactive behaviour of the visual installations and even by enabling direct interaction of participants through a physical interface.

We often employ live-coding as an interactive format for delivering the visuals. Inspired by the Creative Coding and Algorave cultures, this involves the direct programming of the projected images, which are overlaid with the code instructions for their own creation.

Outside of our events, we like to complement recorded sets with synchronised visualisers and to create contemplative audiovisual journeys. Our means of optical communication furthermore span beyond digital animation, into photography, graphics and design.
